

JEC AWARDED THE BEST CONSTRUCTION SITE HOUSEKEEPING AWARD

20 January 2006 - The Hong Kong Government's Drainage Services Department (DSD) has always recognised the importance of keeping its construction sites clean, organised and hygienic for the well-being of the community. The "Construction Sites Housekeeping Award Scheme" was first launched in 2004 to promote this DSD philosophy. Through this annual award, DSD's senior management show their appreciation to participating companies who maintain excellent housekeeping performance on site. JEC has always recognised the need for keeping construction sites clean, organised and hygienic to maintain peak efficiency and maximise site productivity. Following on from the same prestigious award in 2004, JEC has again been awarded the prize "Construction Sites Housekeeping Award Scheme 2005" for Supply and Installation of E&M Equipment for Shatin Sewage Treatment Works (STW) Stage III Extension, Phase II Works.
